4th Annual ViEW Workshop

Join us at the Annual Conference of the Association for Medical Education in Europe (AMEE)
25 - 29 August 2007

Trondheim, Norway

Provisional date: Sunday, 26 August 2007

Following the success of previous workshops at AMEE, the annual meeting of Veterinary Education Worldwide (ViEW) will incorporate a full day workshop to discuss 'Managing Change in the Veterinary Curriculum'.

There are many reasons why change is essential within veterinary curricula e.g. developments in the veterinary profession and society; increased content as a result of scientific advances; new educational knowledge and perceptions; the need for comparability between degrees world-wide (Bologna) and increasing diversity in the student population.

Curriculum change is, therefore, a constant challenge, whether it is incremental or a major change of direction: handled well it can invigorate and inspire, increasing faculty's involvement in educational development.

The interactive workshop aims to:

- identify successful strategies for introducing and implementing needs-driven change both at the institutional and individual level;
- identify what long-term support is needed to establish curriculum change as a normal and necessary process.

Colleagues from other professions are warmly welcomed to attend this workshop, however, the emphasis will be on veterinary education.
